

The current restrictions should continue. There is no reason to worsen an already boring radio selection. The idea that you would allow the consolidation of news resources to the point that I will never hear about something as silly as this FCC idea or any other news item that the big media outlets don't want me to hear is rather frightening.